Interviewee #2 Script: The interviewer's questions have been provided. When prompted, read each answer out loud as if you are interviewing for a job. Do not read the italicized words out loud; they are notes for you.

Q: "Did you bring a copy of your résumé?"

A résumé? Oh, yeah...it's in here somewhere. (Dig around in your pocket or bag until you find a crumpled résumé. Smooth out the paper and hand it to the interviewer.)

Q: "Tell me a little bit about yourself."

Well, I've been taking a little time off lately – traveling around the United States. I'm trying to get one tattoo from every state. I've already got a pretty good start, see? (Show the interviewer your bare arm.)

Q: "What are your strengths?"

I can talk to anybody...and about any subject! There's never a dull moment when I'm in a room.

Q: "What are your weaknesses?"

Hmmm, I can't think of anything. Oh yeah, I have a weakness for Rocky Road ice cream. I bet I could eat an entire gallon in one sitting. I also like to sleep late. Really, I'm much more of a night owl than an early bird. Sure the early bird gets the worm, but who wants worms anyway?

Q: "Why do you want to work here?"

I figured I'd be able to get free meals if I worked in a restaurant. Plus, I'm living at home with my mom and she wants me to pay rent...can you believe that?

Q: "Tell me about a recent job or volunteer position you had."

Uh, the last job I had was at my uncle's sporting goods store. That was a while ago, though – and it didn't last too long.

Q: "Why did you leave that position?"

Well, me and the manager didn't always see eye to eye. Sometimes customers were pretty rude when we didn't have the sports equipment they wanted and my manager expected me to be nice to these people when they clearly didn't deserve it. Let's just say me and the store parted ways by mutual agreement.

Q: "Do you have any questions for me?"

Do your employees get free meals?
